

Stateful Memory and Outcome Accountability Drive the Factory Model

Unlike individual agents that are stateless and assist within a single domain, a factory owns the full operations loop and is accountable for outcomes.

Full-Loop Accountability:

ADF connects operational domains, holding the entire loop accountable.

Stateful Memory:

Correlates immediate events and tracks long-term operational history, enabling multi-agent orchestration that improves over time without manual reconfiguration.